Pleads not guilty to charges

Feds indict Supervisor Perniciaro

BY DENA BISNETTE
Hancock County Beat Four Supervisor Sam J. Perniciaro Sr., arrested Tuesday on an indictment that included charges of mail fraud, bribery, extortion and conspiracy to defeat the county unit system, has been released on $125,000 unsecured bond.

SAM J. PERNICIARO SR.

Perniciaro's indictment is alleged to be the first one of the 35 handed down against Mississippi supervisors so far in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "Operation Pretense" that mentions the unit system and the first that mentions unindicted co-conspirators.

The supervisor, after pleading innocent in a Thursday appearance before Federal Magistrate John Roper in Biloxi, stated Friday that he had been instructed by his attorney, Albert Necaise, not to discuss the indictment.

However, Perniciaro did say that the indictment is not affecting his candidacy for re-election.

"I want everybody to know I'm still running and that I'm going to continue to do my job to support the county," the supervisor said.

"At the time, Perniciaro was in the Hancock County Courthouse "attending to routine business," he said.

"I want you to tell the people for me that I'm here if they need me."

Necaise said that the court date is Aug. 31 in Southern District Federal Court in Jackson before U.S. District Judge Tom Lee.

Necaise said that he did not know anything about reports that Federal Judges Dan Russell and Walter Gex III had had to recuse themselves from hearing the case. Both are former attorneys for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Reactions from the other supervisors consisted mostly of shock.

"I'm shocked like everybody else," Beat Five Supervisor James Travica said. However, he said he did not feel that the indictment would affect Perniciaro's ability to continue working for the public or with the other board members, or affect Perniciaro's candidacy against a challenger who has never yet held public office.

"I think people are more broad-minded than that. They know the job we do and I don't think they will take that away from him."

When asked if he were concerned that he also might be indicted, Travica said, "I'm not worried."

"I hope the people of the county will allow Sammy the opportunity to have his day in court. I really respect him and I know he's done a lot for the county. This is unfortunate," Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner said.

"This is a real sad thing," Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge said. "The timing is terrible and I'm really sorry it happened. Sammy is a good friend and a good supervisor and I'm not passing judgement on him."

"This is really shocking," Beat Two Supervisor and Board President A.A. "Dolph" Kellar said.

"I know this will be a reflection on all of the board as far as this happening, but I don't see how it will involve my politics," Kellar said.

He said that he is not worried about the possibility he might be one of the unindicted co-conspirators involved. "I didn't deal with any of these people," he explained.

"A man is innocent until proven guilty," he added when asked whether the indictment would affect the cooperation between Perniciaro and other board members.

The sealed indictment was issued July 8 and unsealed the following day.

The indictment states that the incidents that led to the charges occurred during and between August 1984 and September 1986.

The indictment alleges that Perniciaro "devised and intended to devise a scheme to defraud the citizens of the State of Mississippi and Hancock County, the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Miss., the State Auditor, and all persons desiring to engage in the business of sale of materials, equipment and supplies to Hancock County in a proper and legitimate manner, and to obtain money and property from the State of Mississippi and Hancock County by means of false and fraudulent pretenses, representations and promises, and in furtherance thereof use and cause to be used the United States mails for the purpose of executing the scheme."

According to the indictment, "The defendant would and did propose with Hollman Equipment Company to submit a 'busted' invoice to the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County and the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, by mails and otherwise for the purpose of a sale by Hollman to Hancock County of equipment parts, more specifically cylinders..."

A "busted" invoice is a false invoice that reflects a quantity of equipment parts, materials or supplies never delivered, according to the definition the indictment gives.

The indictment also alleges that Perniciaro agreed to receive as a kickback part of a check issued to another firm, Davis Chemical, and that he also made a similar arrangement with Mid-State Pipe and Supply Company, and that the mails were used for exchange of the payments on the invoices.

Prior to Feb. 22, 1984, the defendant approved a false and fraudulent invoice to the county for approximately $382.25 and received $50 in cash as a kickback," the indictment states.

The indictment continues, "Prior

Longo answers Bay mayor, councilman on wastewater costs

BY DENA BISNETTE
Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Chairman John Longo Jr. has invited a Bay St. Louis councilman to contribute new ideas to the district's current improvement project, but he also plans to offer the city a chance to withdraw from the district.

Longo's statements Friday morning were made in response to a newspaper article that appeared the day after the wastewater board's most recent meeting, which was Wednesday.

The story detailed comments made by Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. and Councilman James Thriftley III after a Tuesday meeting of the Bay St. Louis City Council to a reporter regarding the cost of the wastewater project to Bay St. Louis residents.

The improvement project to which Longo referred is in progress and will eventually link the Bay St. Louis and Waveland sewage collection systems with the existing Waveland treatment plant as primary treatment facility.

In addition, Segment IV of the project will provide the first publicly-owned sewage collection system in the unincorporated part of Hancock County. The district has recently begun preparations for that part of the project.

Frankiewicz serves as the Bay St. Louis representative to the wastewater board, established under special legislation. Longo represents Waveland and Board of Supervisors President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar represents the county.

According to Longo, Frankiewicz has repeatedly blamed increases in the cost of sewerage for Bay St. Louis residents on wastewater district costs.

The Bay mayor's most recent disagreement with the district occurred July 1, when Frankiewicz was the only board member voting against a proposal to provide $150,000 of $500,000 in windfall funds from an interest-free state loan as a loan to the county for costs related to a collection system Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1, the first section of the county planned sewerage.

Frankiewicz had called the loan "misappropriation of funds" and had several objections, including contentions that the money should be used to defray expenses from earlier segments and that the money should be used for treatment-related costs and not a collection system.

"The only thing I can say is that I'm sure the entities involved in Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District would help the City of Bay St. Louis do whatever is best for its citizens," Longo said.

"If they feel it's in their best interests to withdraw, then I think their representative should be allowed to make a motion to withdraw."

Longo said he does not know at this point whether the special legislation that created the district will allow withdrawal but he said the question will be referred to the wastewater district's attorney, Lucien Gex.

The Waveland mayor said he personally feels that withdrawal would not be a good move.

"It would be a sad thing. I feel it's in the best interests of the entire county if we all work together," Longo explained.

"I feel like it would be much more difficult on the people of Bay St. Louis and I guess the next moratorium would mean no real estate could be bought or sold in that city."

Longo was referring to a moratorium imposed on the unincorporated parts of Hancock County more than a year ago when the State Health Department stopped approving the use of septic tanks in low-lying or densely populated areas, particularly south of Interstate-10.

The board of supervisors and representatives of the regional wastewater district met with representatives of environmental protection agencies including State Board of Health and Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control.

Those regulatory agencies allowed the county to propose an interim

$6.6 million county schools building project proceeding

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Hancock County School District building project including a new junior-senior high school is "on go."

Superintendent Terrell Randolph reported Friday at a recess meeting of the school board, validation of the bonds to finance the $6.6 million project was completed earlier that morning with no opposition.

In addition to a new junior-senior high school, the building project includes extensive remodeling at Hancock North Central, and classroom additions at Charles B. Murphy and Gulfview elementary schools.

At this meeting the board authorized architects to proceed with plans for construction of two classrooms at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School and bathrooms at the school's lower elementary building and approved preliminary plans for a six classroom addition at Gulfview Elementary School.

Bill Thompson of Thompson and Associates of Jackson presented the plans to the school board for the new classrooms which are designed for kindergarten students.

Each classroom will contain a large carpeted area, small restroom, and "wet area" including a low cabinet with a sink.

In the preliminary designs classroom sizes will be in excess of the mandatory 600 square feet. The carpeted area will be approximately 600 square feet.

Thompson told the board this classroom addition would cost between $35-$41 per square foot. The classroom building has nearly 5,500 square feet.

The project should be ready for bids by the middle of August with occupation to follow in January.

An estimate of the cost is about $220,000, he said.

The board also discussed a time schedule for all the building projects to be completed including the new junior-senior high school.

Thompson outlined a plan to the board which will allow occupancy of the new school in January 1990.

He told the board occupancy could be earlier but he wanted to keep the board members completely involved in all the planning stages.

Information is also being gathered from teachers, administrators and students about what the new school should be like.

As a part of the planning Thompson said he would like the board members to view several designs for schools, see a slide show on various schools and actually visit existing schools so they would become more familiar with school design.

He also emphasized the importance of getting the community and students involved, so the new facility would be more of their school and one they can be proud of.

The board agreed to appoint three committees to help with decisions regarding the building project for the new school.

These committees will be finance, site design and student.

Members of the finance and site-design committees will be appointed by the school board members. Each member will appoint one committee person from the various districts in the county.

Also during the meeting the board discussed continuing negotiations with the Crump family for a more suitable site for the new school.

Randolph recommended the original site be rejected and that negotiations continue not only with the Crump family but with others as well on available sites in the immediate vicinity.

MAIN STREET OPEN
Main Street is open despite road work, Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. said.

The mayor said most of the work will be confined to sidewalks, although one lane of the street will be blocked part of the time.

He said the work this week is scheduled for the area between Toulouse Street and Necaise Avenue.

Water system improvements underway on Main Street

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Work is underway on the final phase of an extensive water system improvement project in Bay St. Louis.

This final phase includes a new eight-inch water line on Main Street from Second Street to Dunbar Avenue and a loop in the system on Third Street.

The Main Street work which began Thursday, is expected to take approximately six weeks.

However Director of Public Works Norbert Redmond emphasized that the work is being conducted in a manner to cause the least inconvenience.

"The new line will be installed along side the road where the sidewalk is so the road will not have to be dug up any more than necessary," he said.

In addition to putting the new water line in along side the road to limit inconvenience, the construction area will be "cleaned up" each evening and no open trenches, etc. will be left, Redmond said.

Installation of the new line is necessary to stop a leak repair problem in the existing water line which is more than 50 years old.

Total project cost is $62,840 and the Main Street section will be approximately $55,000.

Extensive work in the annexed area around Suebe and Turner Streets and in the Cedar Point has already been completed. This work included installation and upgrading the size of water lines and installation of fire hydrants.

Magnolia Construction Company of Baton Rouge, La. was the low bidder for the project.

The entire project is expected to be completed in mid-September, according to William Zimmerman, field construction supervisor.

These improvements are a part of an upgrading project for the entire city water system as proposed by A. Garner Russell and Associates engineering firm in Gulfport.

A recently completed water system improvement not included in this project is a new water well on the four Street right-of-way.

Nutrition program improves diets

By Karen L. Moore
 Mississippi Cooperative
 Extension Service

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Many Mississippians have had their doctors tell them they have to change their diets. Weight loss, sodium and fat are on the minds of many newly health conscious consumers.

But very often patients don't have enough knowledge or aren't given enough information about nutrition to help them make the changes, according to Barbara P. McLaurin, a food and nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

To help people who are interested in changing their diets, the MCES is teaching, in conjunction with the Red Cross, a six-part series called "Better Eating for Better Health." The program emphasizes making people aware of what their nutrition practices are and teaching about making decisions to improve one's diet.

The MCES decided the program would benefit Mississippians since six of every 10 deaths in the state have poor diets as a contributing factor. The purpose of the program is to teach an overall healthy diet.

"The program is not for weight control," McLaurin said, but some people do end up losing weight because of the changes they make in their diet and people who have mild diet restrictions can benefit.

The program is available in 54 counties in the state and has recently concluded in Hancock County under the teaching of Extension home economist Darlene Underwood.

Margie Welsh took the course to learn more about controlling cholesterol in her and her husband's diet.

"We should have been concerned about cholesterol before now but sometimes you have to get old before you realize what's important."

"I'm much more conscious now of fatty foods and also foods high in sodium," she said. "I feel better now, I have more energy, my blood pressure is lower and I have lost 10 pounds."

Welsh said she now feels guilty when she eats foods high in fat and sodium. She said she trims fat off meat and is now aware of the hidden fat in meats.

Welsh said she also learned to read labels when she shops so she can more closely monitor her consumption of sodium, fat, calories, vitamins and carbohydrates.

Martha Van Peski, employee benefits coordinator of Coast Electric Power Association, thought the course would fit in well with the power association's emphasis on improving its employees' health.

She was also interested in it for herself. She and three other employees or dependents of employees completed the course. The power association paid their $10 registration.

"I'm eating three vegetables a day now and making it a point to eat balanced meals," Van Peski said.

"At first I didn't realize it would take time to plan balanced meals but it doesn't take as long now."

Van Peski said she learned about the hidden forms of sugar.

McLaurin said those hidden forms include corn syrup, corn syrup solids, honey and words ending in -ose (such as fructose, glucose, maltose and dextrose).

They appear in unsuspecting products like tomato soup, ketchup and coffee whitener.

Salt also hides in food, McLaurin said. It also goes by the names of soda, sodium, MSG (monosodium glutamate) and baking soda.

Van Peski is trying to eat less junk food and believes her diet is improving based on the results of her diet recall tests before and after the course.

Participants were required to write down everything they ate for three days when they started the class and for three days when they finished the class.

Norma Haas said she had been to nutrition classes before they had not been in-depth enough on how to modify diets.

"I had always been interested in nutrition but didn't have time to learn enough about it because of working," Haas said. "I'm retired now and have time and I want to enjoy life."

She learned how to change recipes to make them lower in fat and salt. She is also eating leaner cuts of meat and bought a meat grinder to grind her own meat after trimming the fat. Both she and her husband have lost weight and their food bill is down from using less sugar, cream, butter and meats.

RE-ELECT CURTIS HOLSTON REPRESENTATIVE DISTRICT 106

The proven, qualified, honest man.

I believe in lean, efficient government. This year I voted against a proposal to raise your income taxes.

By prudent management and setting priorities, we were still able without a tax increase to give substantial increases to crucial state services, including:

*Public school teachers
 *Junior Colleges
 *School text books

*State employees
 *Universities
 *Mental health

Current state revenue collections are increasing as our economy grows. I am encouraged that in 1988 we will be able to fund additional state pay raises with no new taxes.

Hard-nosed, businesslike money management is the key. I pledge always to work to stretch your tax dollar just as you stretch your personal budget.

I respectfully ask for your vote and support. Thank you.

YOU AND YOUR HEALTH

Dear Dr. Esse: Do you think heavy exercise can be dangerous — especially running?

Dear Z.B.: I do issue the precaution that would be exercisers older than 35 should visit their physicians for a history, physical exam, blood test and perhaps a stress test as well.

As far as specific danger is concerned, one potential risk only applies to women who are in serious training, such as for a marathon. Hormonal changes associated with long-distance running may lead to bone decalcification. Women who are in training such as this should supplement their diets with 1,000-1,500 milligrams of calcium per day, reduce protein intake (protein increases calcium loss). These women may even be candidates for estrogen replacement. That probably sounds quite severe, but remember this is reserved for a very small segment of the exercising population.

Another area to touch on is a definite entity — the anemia of long-distance runners. Many athletes who train heavily have been effected with this. It's known to be the result of iron deficiency, the loss probably occurring through sweat. Therefore, long-distance runners should have their blood checked routinely. I recommend iron supplementation as well.

Hearing set for juvenile detained in truck thefts

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Hancock County Youth Court hearing has been set for Monday for a 16-year-old being detained in connection with theft of two pick-up trucks.

According to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay, the juvenile has been detained in the Hancock County Jail under authority of the youth court since he was taken into custody Friday morning by Deputy Dennis Taltavouille.

Seay said that one truck, a black Dodge Ram, was taken from in front of a Lakeshore residence Wednesday night when the driver stopped to visit the occupant of the house.

Tracks in the sand on the driveway indicated the truck had been driven into the front of the house, the investigator added.

On Thursday, a truck marked with the name of a Bay Side business was taken out of a parking lot. At about 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., the marked vehicle was spotted and pursued in Bay Side Park subdivision.

Seay said the driver was not apprehended but the marked truck was later found in a ditch near Nelson Street in Shoreline Park. Nearby, investigators found signs that another vehicle had been parked in the woods.

According to Seay, the Dodge truck was later found "in a deplorable condition." He stated that the truck "was immaculate."

Both trucks have been returned to their owners.

Waveland troop elevates first three Eagle Scouts

Boy Scouts of America Troop 77 of Waveland recently promoted its first three members to the Eagle Scout rank, the highest honor in scouting.

Eagle Scout Court of Honor ceremonies were held at the American Legion Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray Post 77, home on Coleman Avenue in Waveland, sponsor of the troop.

Scouts honored were Joseph W. Gex Jr., John P. Holmquist and John J. Perkins Jr.

Gex, 16, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Gex Sr. of Bay St. Louis and is a senior at St. Stanislaus High School.

Gex joined Troop 77 in 1982 and has served as patrol leader and is now a member of the Leadership Corps.

He has earned 36 merit badges, 12 skill awards, the World Conservation Award, the Interpreter Strip for French and is an Ordeal Member of the Order of the Arrow.

At St. Stanislaus, Gex is a member of the National Honor Society and school intramural teams.

He is an Alpha student and was in the top ten percent of his junior English class.

He is a member of the varsity football and track and field teams and the Recreational Soccer League and plans to be a member of varsity soccer next year.

Gex is a member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church and the Catholic Youth Organization.

In 1987, Gex won third place in The American Legion Auxiliary Essay Contest and was a delegate to The American Legion Boy's State where he was elected circuit court judge for State District Four.

John P. Holmquist, 16, is a junior at Bay Senior High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Holmquist of Waveland.

He has been a member of Troop 77 since 1981 and has served as quartermaster, bugler, senior patrol leader and as a member of the Leadership Corps and is now a patrol leader for the second time.

In the Boy Scouts, he has earned 40 merit badges, 12 skill awards, the World Conservation Award and the Red Cross Lifesaving Award and is an Ordeal Member of the Order of the Arrow.

Holmquist is a member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and a member of the Young Men's Quorum, which he has served as president.

As a six-year member of the Bay High Band, he has won honorable mention best brass player and best trumpet player.

Holmquist is a member of The Sons of The American Legion which he is serving as sergeant-at-arms. He is also a brown belt member of shotokan karate.

Seventeen-year-old John Perkins Jr. is a 1987 graduate of Bay Senior High School and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Perkins Sr. of Waveland.

Perkins joined Troop 77 in 1981 and was elected assistant patrol leader that same year. Since then, he has served as patrol leader, historian, scribe, librarian, senior patrol leader and as a member of the Leadership Corps and is currently the junior assistant scoutmaster.

In the Boy Scouts, Perkins earned 38 merit badges, 12 skill awards and the World Conservation Award and is also an Ordeal Member of the Order of the Arrow.

Perkins is a member of St. Clare Catholic Church.

He is also a member of The Sons of The American Legion, holding the office of adjutant.

As a student at Bay High School, he was a member of the Distributive Education Clubs of America which named him Vocational Education Student of the Year.

He was also a member of the Cooperative Education Program in his senior year. As a five-year member of the Bay Senior High Band, he served as music librarian. Perkins was a Beta student and an Alpha student in his senior year.

Perkins is employed by Kmart in Waveland where is the checkout supervisor.

The scoutmaster of Troop 77 is John A. Perkins Sr. and the assistant scoutmaster is Wesley J. Dorn, both of Waveland.

The program began with the flag ceremony, during which the scouts of the troop lined the center aisle, giving the scout salute, as the United States flag and the troop flag were advanced and placed on stage by flag bearers Daniel Cuevas and Kevin Bourgeois.

The Pledge of Allegiance was recited by all and was followed by the invocation by Post 77 Chaplain George Wilhelm.

Area students honored in "Best of 1987"

Melissa Duncan of Bay Senior High, David Bourgeois and Louis Schmitt, both of St. Stanislaus and Kelly Kolodziej of Our Lady Academy were recently honored in the fourth annual "The Best of 1987."

This unique public service program is co-sponsored by WWL-TV Channel 4 and Louisiana Power and Light and salutes area high schools' valedictorians for their academic achievements.

Channel 4 anchors Garland Robinette, Angela Hill, Dave Barnes and Jim Henderson congratulated the students at a picnic in their honor at the New Orleans City Park.

These outstanding students received commemorative certificates and a special "Best of 1987" t-shirt at the picnic.

Lack of pep is often mistaken for patience. Kin Hubbard

The students were also filmed during the picnic to be shown in videotaped public service announcements.

Students honored as "The Best of 1987" come from all over southeast Louisiana and the Gulf Coast.

Computer match generates new draft registrations

The names of 904 individuals who have received federal Pell Grants—student financial assistance—have been referred to the Department of Education by the Selective Service System.

They were identified by a computer matching program as possible lawbreakers, and will be ineligible for additional student financial aid if found not to be in compliance with the registration requirement. This referral was only a partial submission of names. There are plans to make additional referrals in the future.

Through the computer matching program between the Department of Education and Selective Service 37,000 men who either applied for, or received Pell Grants have registered with Selective Service as of March 19.

Their identities were discovered by Selective Service through a computer match of Department of Education Pell Grant applicant and recipient lists and Selective Service registration files.

It cannot be said how many of those men had been in violation of the registration requirement when they applied for or received a grant. Students whose names did not match a record in the registration database received letters informing them they were suspected nonregistrants, and would be considered ineligible for federal financial assistance if they are required to register and have not done so.

The sharing of records between Education and Selective Service stems from a provision of Public Law 97-252. An amendment to the Military Selective Service Act requires that men be in compliance with the registration law to be eligible for student financial aid under Title IV of the Higher Education Act.

Rep. Gerald B. Solomon (R-N.Y.) sponsored the legislation which has become known as the Solomon Amendment. Mr. Solomon is a strong supporter of Selective Service and his legislation has been instrumental in increasing the registration rate.

"Registration is something that I believe strongly in. If a young man is going to accept the benefits that his country has to offer, then he must be willing to accept the responsibilities that come with them. One of these responsibilities is registration." According to Selective Service Acting Director Wil Ebel, young men who are 18 through 25 years old, must be registered. There are few exceptions. Ebel reports that over 96 percent are complying with the law. Besides being ineligible for student grants and loans, nonregistrants forfeit eligibility for appointment to federal employment and job training programs. They also risk criminal prosecution and, if convicted, face a fine of up to $250,000 or a jail term of up to five years, or both.

Four area students among Tulane spring graduates

More than 1,600 students received diplomas during spring commencement ceremonies held at Tulane University.

These ceremonies mark the end of Tulane's year-long celebration of the 100th birthday of Newcomb College, the oldest degree-granting women's college established within an American university. Today, the college serves as the women's liberal arts division of Tulane.

One of the most highly selective private universities in the nation, Tulane enrolls more than 10,000 students, has more than 800 faculty members and has 11 schools and colleges, including the College of Arts and Sciences and Newcomb College; professional schools in business, architecture, engineering, law, social work, medicine and public health and tropical medicine; the Graduate School; and University College, which offers continuing education programs for the general public.

Spring graduates included: Carol Eckelmann Moore, master of business administration and Elizabeth Suzanne Merrifield, bachelor of science in biomedical engineering, both of Bay St. Louis; Vernon L. Wimberley, bachelor of science in computer information systems of Pass Christian.

Lynne Marie Thompson, master of business administration of Waveland.

WHEN YOU TALK, SHE LISTENS RIVER DIVERSION IS STILL A CRISIS

The Pearl River Diversion Issue was at a standstill, or should I say a standoff, when I took office four years ago as your State Representative.

There was little support from state officials in Jackson. That was changed with hard work.

The Army Corps of Engineers has finally acknowledged that a serious problem does exist on the river and action must be taken before it's too late.

Now the Corps is cooperating with Mississippi officials to restore the flow into the East Pearl.

A top priority for my district? Yes! You had better believe it's important. This resource is one that our state and community can ill afford to lose. Water is, and will become, a more precious commodity in the future.

We must make sure that Southwest Mississippi and Pearl River County will have a Pearl River for future generations to use and enjoy.

Senate District 47 will need a strong, motivated force at the state level to educate a new Governor, new Attorney General and a new Director of the Department of Natural Resources about this important issue.

For four years I have been that motivating source at the state level. Assure yourselves of proven support from someone who has worked her way through this issue. Send me to be your Senator, a proven leader who will continue to set the pace.

Quotables by Cuevas

On Thursday Renaldo 'Uncle Nal' Cameron of Kiln, died in Miramar Nursing Home and was placed to rest on Saturday.

Uncle Nal, who was age 95 and was at Miramar about two years, had the reputation of fishing just about every day of his life in the Jordan River.

An avid sports fan, he attended basketball games when Kiln High School was one of the powerhouses of the area.

When Hancock North Central came along with consolidation, Uncle Nal attended every basketball and football game.

In his later years, a daughter would drive him to the ball games, and even with poor eyesight, he would enjoy the sports action.

A school board member for the Kiln School system many years ago, Uncle Nal was always interested in the well-being of the youth of the area.

The World War I veteran also enjoyed hunting. We know Uncle Nal will be missed by his family and friends in the Kiln area.

It is hard to believe we have gone three days without rain.

This is almost a record for the area, at least for the past several months.

It is good to see sunshine and dry weather for a change.

On July 4th the Anderson-Shaw American Legion Post No. 58 in Standard Community had the honor and privilege of having National Commander James Dean as a special guest for the dedication of an addition to their post home.

The 100-plus members of the Legion post in North Hancock County are very proud of their facility and have a right to be.

The post has been in existence only a little over 20 years and has come a long way.

Hilbert Deschamp, post commander, has been the Legion's leader at Standard since the post was chartered.

Commander Dean visited the Standard post prior to being the keynote speaker at the Annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo in Gulfport.

As most of you know, Dean is a native of Corinth, Miss. and the first National American Legion Commander ever to be from the state of Mississippi.

While on the subject of leaders, unless something unforeseen happens, the Legion post of Bay St. Louis or Waveland will have the new department commander for the American Legion.

Jack Doyle of Post 77 and Clayton Thompson of Post 139 are the candidates for department commander at the state convention this weekend in Jackson.

MEC Mississippi Economic Council

Mississippi will become "an island in the Middle South" if the state's lawmakers do not take some action on tort reform, said the chairman of the state's primary business organization.

Kenneth Milam, chairman of the Mississippi Economic Council, said the success of neighboring states in passing tort reform measures must spur Mississippi leaders to take some action for tort reform.

Louisiana Governor Edwin Edwards this week signed into law a tort reform bill approved by the Legislature that will end joint and several liability. Mississippi business leader tried to have similar legislation, along with several other tort reform measures, passed this year. The changes passed the Senate but were rejected in House committee.

Alabama just recently passed 10 tort reform measures for that state that will aid its economic development efforts.

"Unless the Mississippi Legislature moves quickly to address the tort reform issue, Mississippi will be an island in the Middle South without the benefit of laws favorable to future economic development," Milam said.

Joint and several liability reform was one of five major changes sought in the Louisiana Legislature by the Louisiana Association of Business and Industry. A change to reduce judicial interest also has passed the state's Legislature and is awaiting the governor's signature. Three other changes, involving strict liability, products liability, and comparative negligence, failed.

Under joint and several liability, if more than one defendant is found to be at fault in a case, the plaintiff can collect up to 100 percent of the judgment from any of the defendants.

The Louisiana Legislature has changed that law so that a defendant cannot be obligated to pay a higher percentage of the judgment than the percentage of fault of which he was found guilty.

Louisiana's judicial interest law required 12 percent interest paid on judgments from the time of the filing of a lawsuit. Business was successful in gaining overwhelming approval in the Legislature to change the law so that interest is not paid until a judgment is rendered.

The success in changing the joint and several liability law is seen as a major victory by Louisiana business interests.

"This is a very important step for Louisiana business," said Jonica Coates, director of LABI's Liability Task Force.

The task force's survey of manufacturers in March found that 35 percent thought the liability laws should be changed. Eighty-seven percent said present liability laws are hurting their willingness to expand.

A similar study conducted by the Mississippi Economic Council last year showed that Mississippi manufacturers also have been deterred by the state's "litigation-prone environment."

The MEC study showed that at least 46 percent of the state's business owners and operators have been forced to make decisions which have adversely affected both their own and the state's economic advancement because of the threat of lawsuits.

MEC will continue to push for tort reform in the 1988 legislative session. The changes proposed by MEC and 33 other business organizations include provisions to end joint and several liability, reduce the statute of limitations from six years to three years, and set penalties for frivolous lawsuits.

GET OUT AND VOTE

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce urges all Hancock County residents to get out and exercise your Constitutional right to cast your ballot and vote for the candidate of your choice.

The first primary is Tuesday, August 4, and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU
Mississippi businesses and consumers can now call their Better Business Bureau toll-free, no matter where in the state they may be.

The Better Business Bureau of Mississippi, Inc. recently announced the installation of an intrastate WATS line, 1-800-624-6222, on which Mississippi residents can call BBB state headquarters in Jackson if they are not within the local dialing area of one of its three branch offices.

The BBB offers information to consumers about business firms with which they are considering dealing.

A person thinking of purchasing goods or services from a particular merchant can call the BBB and ask what experiences previous customers have had.

Should a problem develop, the buyer can request the bureau's assistance in seeking a solution.

City surprises Main Street merchants

Editor:
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,
What on this green earth is going on in the minds of our city fathers? Have they lost all sensitivity toward their constituency? This morning I woke up to find my street being blocked and closed without any advance notice of any kind.

This meant that for all practical purposes eight businesses in the downtown area were severely limited in their ability to conduct business and produce the revenues that our city fathers are so busy spending.

Please, Mr. Mayor, help us in our quandary and provide us with information on the following:

1. How long will the street be torn up?
2. When will the sidewalks be replaced?
3. Who represents the City on the job?
4. Whose utilities will be cut off next?
5. When is the total job to be completed?

Yours truly,

IN CONGRESS By Cong. Trent Lou

A Foreign State Department

I have seen Presidents come and go, but the U.S. State Department stays the same. The most intransigent, embedded and incompetent bureaucracy in Washington is the career foreign service of the United States, and you will note that I said foreign service.

I had hoped that President Reagan would have appointed a Secretary of State who could and would have kept the career foreign service under control.

Instead, we have a Secretary who has allowed himself to become ensnared by the professional bureaucrats to such a degree that he has been effectively unable to carry out the Administration's objectives.

Members of the career foreign service are supposed to be our representatives throughout the world. However, although we would like to think of them as diligently working to give effect to our national policies, all too often they pursue an agenda of their own rather than that of the President.

It is no wonder that both Republican and Democratic presidents alike have complained about the responsiveness of the career foreign service.

Why is it that the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), one of the world's most dangerous terrorist organizations, has been allowed the implied recognition and status of maintaining an office in Washington, D.C., and of maintaining a "diplomatic" mission to the United Nations in New York?

Why is it that one of the most geographically prominent sites in Washington was provided to the Soviet Union for construction of its new embassy?

From this location, at an elevation among the highest in Washington, the Soviets are able to conduct widespread surveillance, even to the point that the State Department has been forced to install special detectors to protect its own headquarters.

Finally, why is it that we have allowed our new embassy in the Soviet Union to become so infested with Russian listening devices that it has become a virtual "giant antenna" to broadcast even more of our national secrets?

It is now clear that the reason for these outrageous breakdowns in security is largely one of a foreign service that is apparently more interested in serving foreign interests than our own.

Those engaged in our foreign service to Russia even convinced Speaker-of-the-House Jim Wright (D-Texas), on a recent visit, that we need to be careful not to offend the Soviets as we tighten our own security.

The only thing I can think of that is more outrageous than what I have already mentioned, is to reward it. Unfortunately, though, Secretary Shultz has seen fit to give our recently recalled Ambassador to the Soviet Union, and other high ranking State Department officials, $10,000 cash "merit" bonuses.

I and many other members of Congress have loudly protested this action, but more is needed to correct the overall problem. That is why I am proposing six amendments to the upcoming State Department Authorization Bill.

For the safety and future of our nation, I want to ensure that, before the professional bureaucrats are paid for their services, they at least serve in a way that is a little less foreign and a lot more likely to put America first.

National 'shroom hunters to converge on Long Beach

The North American Mycological Association (NAMA) will hold its annual foray July 16-19 at the University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Park Campus in Long Beach.

Mushroom hunters from all parts of the United States as well as several foreign countries will attend.

In addition to the forays—mushroom hunts—there will be papers presented, workshops on various topics and social events.

Among the presentations will be

Dr. William Cibula on "Gulf Coast Fungi," Dan Guravich on "Outdoor Photography," Ursula Pohl and John Folse on "Cooking With Mushrooms" and Pat Brannon on "Dyeing With Fungi." Dr. Allen Bessette will conduct a workshop for beginners.

The Gulf States Mycological Society is hosting the event. Additional information is available from Dr. Clark Ovrebo at 504/891-2820, Paye Swan at 601/323-2641 or Steve Harsch at 504/643-7825.

Diamondhead Association slates candidate program

The Diamondhead Community Association will host a "Meet the Candidate" night Monday at 7 p.m. at the Diamondhead Community Center.

All the candidates who will appear on the ballot in Beat 3, of which Diamondhead is a part, were sent a letter inviting them to participate.

Some of the candidates scheduled to speak are J. P. Compretta, who is a candidate for State Representative; Glenn Cannon, candidate for District Attorney; Buford Ladner, candidate for Justice Court East; Frank McNeil and Ray J. Murphy, both candidates for Sheriff; E. "Mike" Necaise, candidate for Chancery Clerk; and Jerry Mcelford, candidate for Beat 3 Supervisor.

The Community Association is sponsoring this event as a public service so we can be informed voters when we cast our ballots in August. Mark your calendars and plan to be there. For more information call the association secretary at 255-2697.

County Agent's Notes

CORN PESTS

Those of you who grow corn know our insect pests seem to be out in full force this summer. Budworms, particularly corn earworms, armyworms and borers, are now active in late planted corn and their desire to munch on such a tasty plant as corn has not diminished.

When you find at least one budworm per plant it's time to apply insecticide. Sevin or methomyl (Lanate/Nudrin) may be used to control these hungry pests. Use rates according to the label with 20 gallons of water per acre and direct your application in the whorl of the plant, using flood nozzles.

Chinch bugs are also active in corn right now. Both adults and nymphs suck corn juices, causing the plant to weaken or die.

If plants are pale and you see these pests, apply Sevin or Lorsban at label rates with 15 to 20 gallons of water per acre. Direct the application to the lower third of the stalks. Make sure you read the label for restrictions.

BEEF MANAGEMENT TIPS

Most of you beef producers are probably in a better "frame of mind" since cattle prices are the best in the years and some market analysts see this trend continuing. This being the case, now is the time for you to improve your beef operation.

One improvement you should do right now is in your cow herd. Cows are worth more now than they will be this fall. Sell cows that are old. Don't gamble that they will breed back or have a calf next year. Sell your "no mouth" cows, too. Check their teeth when you run your herd through the chute. If the cows have no bottom teeth or if the teeth are short and peggy, sell them.

Back of your cows should have tests of normal size, and all quarters should be in good condition. If your cows have had udders, sell them.

Life is also too short to fool with a mean cow when she is worth as much at the sale now. If you can say, "I fought to sell that cow," then do it. (Source: Larry DeMuth and Guy Springer)

HAROLD J. STIGLET SR.

Stiglet passes Coroners exam

Hancock County Coroner Harold J. Stiglet Sr. recently passed and completed a State Medical Examiners course for coroners at the Mississippi Law Enforcement Academy in Jackson.

All coroners and deputy coroners are required by state law to attend the school and pass the examination in order to serve in their offices after 1988.

The school was the first of three this year that will be sponsored by the state medical examiner's office and the Crime Laboratory.

The one-week course attended by Stiglet began on June 29 and ended on July 3.

After a week of study on death investigations primarily through lectures, the coroners and deputy coroners were given a comprehensive examination.

The examination consisted of about 200 short-answer questions and Stiglet received a passing grade.

The school covered crime scene investigation, AIDS, forensic anthropology, firearms, evidence, family relations, forensic odontology, forensic serology and forensic toxicology.

This official advertisement submitted to and approved by Harold J. Stiglet Sr.

Now, Mobile Medic and Amserv give you twice the protection for one low price.

Mobile Medic and Amserv have joined forces to give your family year-round protection anywhere on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

If you're already a member of Mobile Medic or Amserv, you now have twice as many reasons to renew your membership.

And if you're not already a member, we've given you twice as many reasons to join.

Because starting now, when you join one of our ambulance services, you automatically become a member of the other at no extra charge.

If you need an ambulance west of Debays Road, Mobile Medic will respond. East of Debays Road, Amserv will respond to your call.

No matter where you are in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties, your family will get free emergency ambulance service any time you need it.

And all for one low annual price: just $39.

Emergency care: free to members... $425 to others.

A typical bill for ambulance service and emergency treatment runs around $425.

That's before you get your bills from the hospital, emergency room, or physician.

Your insurance or Medicare may only cover part of the cost. But your membership to Mobile Medic and Amserv covers your entire ambulance bill. You pay absolutely nothing.

And for an entire year, your membership covers you, your spouse, and all your unmarried children under 21 who live at home.

Why pay for service that you can get for free?

Mobile Medic and Amserv are the only ambulance services operating on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

We handle emergency medical treatment for everyone in our area, including non-members.

But while non-members pay for all treatment, supplies and ambulance service, our members pay nothing above the annual $39 membership fee for local service.

If you call us only once in eleven years, your membership will have paid for itself. That's why it's smart to join now.

You must respond by July 31st.

We can only accept memberships once a year. This year's deadline is July 31st.

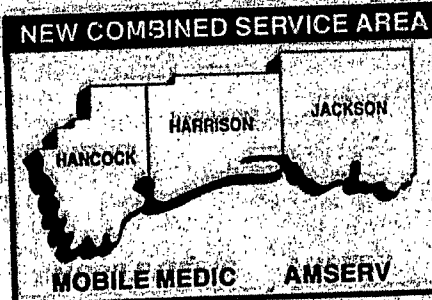

Over 15,000 Gulf Coast families belong to either Mobile Medic or Amserv. And now that we've joined forces, our members will begin enjoying free ambulance service in all three Gulf Coast Counties. That's twice the protection, for one low price.

So we invite you to renew your membership now. Or to sign up with us for the first time, if you're not currently a member.

Fill out the application below and send it with your check today.

Mobile Medic's service area is west of Debays Road. Amserv's service area is east of Debays Road. But now, when you join one, you automatically get a free membership in the other at no charge. So your family is covered anywhere on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, in Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson Counties.

For Information Call: 868-1126

Outside of Harrison County call 1-868-1126 at no charge to you.

87-88 Membership Application

West of Debays Road make your $39 check or money order payable to Mobile Medic. East of Debays Road, make your $39 check or money order payable to Amserv. You will automatically be a member of both.

Complete application and mail to: Mobile Medic/Amserv P.O. Box 4907, 8604 MS 38635-4907 (Sorry, no memberships can be accepted after July 31st.)

Please print the name of a 1987-88 Mobile Medic/Amserv member on this card. I understand that only a husband, wife and all my unmarried children under 21 living at home qualify for family membership.		For office use only: MEMBERSHIP NO. DATE REC'D.

FIRE DAMAGED a walk-in cooler Wednesday at St. Rose de Lima School on Necaise Avenue. Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana said the fire was discovered at 6:45 p.m. by school employee Pedro Williams, who spotted the smoke. The blaze was contained to the area of the cooler and Lizana commended L. Gary Maurice on an "excellent job" at the scene. Lizana also said Williams had the fire pinpointed by the time the fire department personnel arrived at the scene. This was the kind of fire that can smolder a long time and then blaze up and burn everything, Lizana added. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Lauderdale supervisor pleads guilty

Lauderdale County Supervisor Billy Joe Harris on Thursday became the 15th supervisor to plead guilty to charges stemming from the FBI's statewide probe of corrupt county buying practices.

Harris, of Meehan, near Meridian, pleaded guilty to one charge each of bribery and extortion.

But Harris, one of the first supervisors indicted in Operation Pretense, almost lost his chance for a favorable sentencing recommendation and withdrawal of four of the six charges against him.

Harris, 51, initially denied that he took a $500 kickback from a Hollman

Equipment Co. salesman in connection with purchase by Lauderdale County of a $12,000 mower, as charged in count six of his indictment.

"I can't take your plea of guilty if you maintain your innocence," said U.S. District Judge Tom Lee, a visiting judge from the Meridian area.

Harris then admitted that a Hollman salesman "stuck a brown envelope in my pocket" and that he took the $500 "when I shouldn't have."

But Harris said that the kickback was not for the machine listed in the indictment. He said that the mower was bought from the lowest bidder, Hollman, "but we bought several other things from Hollman."

Harris and his attorney stepped outside of the courtroom several times to confer over the sticking point.

At one point, after Harris said that the $500 was not pay for buying from Hollman, Assistant U.S. Attorney Ruth Harris said "if he's not going to admit he took $500 for doing business with Hollman, we'd ask to proceed to trial."

Harris finally agreed that he was guilty of the extortion charge in count six.

Harris could have faced 70 years in prison and $1.5 million in fines if convicted of all charges.

The U.S. Attorney's office recommended a 20-year suspended sentence on the extortion charge, with five years of probation to begin after the sentence on the bribery charge is served.

The U.S. Attorney made no recommendation on the bribery charge, for which Harris could be sentenced to 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

Harris, who had qualified as an independent to run for a second term, agreed to resign his office within two weeks and not seek office again.

In a related matter on Thursday, Clarke County supervisor Francis M. Spivey pleaded innocent in federal court in Jackson to one count of bribery and one count of mail fraud. His trial was set for Sept. 8.

to Nov. 18, 1985, defendant entered into an agreement of a representative of Hollman whereby defendant would receive tires for his personal automobile and the county would be invoiced for parts, more specifically cylinders, never to be delivered in payment for said tires.

The indictment goes on to detail alleged transactions on or about July 10, 1986, involving $100 alleged kickback on a $495 invoice from Davis; an Aug. 7, 1986, alleged $20 kickback on a $144 sales order from Davis; an Oct. 5, 1986, incident in which Perniciaro "approved and caused to be approved" a $37,750 bid from Hollman for a pothole patcher and holding tank, allegedly in anticipation of a $500 kickback; and the alleged receipt of that $500 on or after Nov. 7, 1986.

The indictment alleges that on Jan. 30 of this year, Perniciaro received $50 from Davis in anticipation of a payment on a false invoice for $382 worth of a chemical called perna-bond.

In addition, he allegedly told a Hollman representative "that he would devise a scheme and subterfuge to thwart the unit purchasing system within Hancock County, recently instituted, and which scheme and subterfuge would permit the submission and approval by Hollman and defendant of false and fraudulent invoices to the county for payment" and then Perniciaro allegedly used the mails to carry out that scheme.

Five additional counts of mail fraud are also detailed, all for the purposes of carrying out the alleged schemes with Hollman and Davis, two firms reportedly mentioned in some indictments of other Mississippi supervisors.

Other charges against the supervisors state "that from on or before August, 1984, Perniciaro... knowingly and willfully did corruptly agree to accept things of value, i.e., cash or goods with the approximate total value of $556.12 from persons or organizations other than his employer for or because of defendant's conduct in transactions or matters involving $5,000 or more concerning the affairs of Hancock County..." and note that the parties with whom the agreement were "suppliers and vendors in connection with purchases and payment made for and by Hancock County..."

Another charge states that in November of 1984 and continuing until after January 1986, Perniciaro "did obstruct, delay and affect commerce and the movement of articles and commodities in interstate commerce..." and knowingly and willfully obtained "cash in the approximate sum of $500 and goods with the approximate value of $276.12" from a Hollman representative.

The final count of the nine-count indictment contains the conspiracy charge. The overt acts of conspiracy alleged against the supervisor include six specified items and three items set forth in earlier in connection with the mail fraud charges.

These acts as detailed in the indictment include: "That on or about August, 1984, Perniciaro and unindicted co-conspirators caused an advertisement for bids for a pothole patcher and holding tank to be placed pursuant to the laws of the state of Mississippi in certain newspapers prior to Sept. 13, 1984;

On or about Aug. 30, 1984, Perniciaro and unindicted co-conspirators caused a bid for a pothole patcher to be submitted to Hancock County, Miss. by Hollman Equipment Company, Jackson, Miss.;

That prior to Sept. 13, 1984, Perniciaro agreed to vote in favor of acceptance of Hollman's bid for the pothole patcher and holding tanks in exchange for a 'kickback' and Perniciaro did so well knowing that pursuant to the laws of Mississippi the favorable votes of at least three supervisors were needed to accept and approve a bid for such pothole patcher and holding tanks;

That on or after Nov. 7, 1984, Perniciaro and unindicted co-conspirators accepted sums of money totalling $2,000 from a representative of Hollman Equipment Company, Jackson, Miss., for approving and causing to be approved the bid of Hollman Equipment Company for the pothole patcher and holding tanks aforesaid;

On or about Nov. 7, 1984, Perniciaro and unindicted co-conspirators caused to be delivered to Hancock County a pothole patcher and holding tank by Hollman Equipment Co. of Jackson, Miss., and Perniciaro and co-conspirators caused approval of a county purchase order therefore;

That on or about Nov. 7, 1984, Perniciaro and an unindicted co-conspirator caused to be mailed an invoice from Hollman Equipment Company, Jackson, Miss., in the amount of $37,750 for the aforesaid pothole patcher and holding tank."

Perniciaro is the second Gulf Coast supervisor indicted in Operation Pretense. The first, Fred Robinson Jr. of Jackson County, was charged with extortion and mail fraud and was one of 16 pleading guilty out of the 38 indicted so far statewide.

Robinson resigned from office, and reportedly some of the others who used plea-bargaining to reduce their charges were required to resign and promise to never again run for public office.

Only one supervisor, Trudie Westmoreland of Perry County, has gone to trial. She was convicted on charges of mail fraud, bribery and extortion.

solution, permitting of individual on-site wastewater treatment facilities, until a plan for sewerage was worked out.

Now that parts of the plan, specifically those regarding Segment IV, are in progress, the moratorium is not being enforced.

"As far as misappropriation of funds, that's comedy; that's a joke," Longo continued in response to the two Bay officials' remarks.

The Waveland mayor contends that the loan may not actually be used.

"It's just a pledge to help the county. I'm sure the money would be repaid and the county may even decide to pay us interest on it. I can't speak for the supervisors," he added, in response to comments from Frankiewicz made regarding interest that Bay St. Louis might lose if the funds were offered for the county's use rather than invested.

Longo explained the wastewater district does not actually have the money yet, only a letter of commitment for state funding, and that therefore no interest funds are being generated at this point.

"The state says it's okay, Brian Engle from Bureau of Pollution Control says it's okay and our attorney says it's okay" to lend the money to the county, Longo explained.

"Waveland has always administered these high-cost anti-pollution projects at a high cost to the people of Waveland," he added, explaining that he spoke not only of the wastewater district project but also of the city's own original sewerage project.

"We did it alone before and we can do it again."

"I can understand Bay St. Louis' problem," but the treatment parameters that have to be met and the new discharge limitations are not going to be easy to meet with an oxidation pond."

Longo added that Thriffield has never attended a wastewater board meeting.

"If he has a better idea for a sewer plant, an oxidation pond, or a lightbulb, anything that will help humanity, then I'm in favor of it. If he has a better idea, I'm inviting him to bring it forth."

"I have an open-door policy and I'm sure everybody concerned would welcome ideas," he said.

Thriffield's allegation that sewerage outside of the two cities will cost $10,000 per household is incorrect, Longo said, adding that although he feels it will be quite expensive, it will not be as expensive as Thriffield believes because the project is eligible for 25 percent federal funding.

"Besides, that part of the project is not going to cost Bay St. Louis anything," the chairman added.

"We promised the Public Health Department, Environmental Protection Agency, Bureau of Pollution Control and everybody involved that we would do this job. We promised these people faithfully that if they would pursue it, we would get it done."

"If Bay St. Louis doesn't want to or can't live up to its commitment, maybe it's better to get out...I have noticed recently that it has become more and more difficult for them to work with other entities," Longo continued.

"We have a nice meeting and everything's fine, then the next morning I pick up the paper and see a whole page on how everybody is dissatisfied. It often appears that I had never been there at all."

He called such statements to the press "slanted" and said he is "sick and tired of seeing them."

"How can he (Thriffield) make a statement like this? The outside district must have sewerage for people to be able to deal in real estate, to buy and sell their homes," the chairman added.

"Without sanitary sewerage, the northern part of the county would be dead."

"I don't believe the county would beat us out of one dime. Dolph Kellar has served diligently and has always been aboveboard and honest."

"He doesn't call special press conferences to make his opinions known. He states his business at the meetings and it's over."

Longo further stated that allegations that specific wastewater funds were set aside for either city are not true. In addition, he said that Waveland had supplied various wastewater-related services, such as testing, free of charge to Bay St. Louis in the past because Bay St. Louis lacked certified personnel.

"Moving forward to help people is all I'm interested in. I'm not interested in negative attitudes or derogatory discussion or name-calling. I have never seen that help anything," the chairman added.

"I urge the people not to rely on hearsay or street talk. You're welcome to come to the meetings where you can hear it for yourself."

"The people of Bay St. Louis are evidently hearing only one side of this," Kellar stated.

Segment IV is not going to cost them or the residents of Waveland one copper cent, but ever since it came up Mayor Frankiewicz has questioned it every step of the way."

The county representative added that he has even seconded some motions to be sure those questions were answered.

Youth Brief

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

Four Bay St. Louis residents have been awarded University of Southern Mississippi Scholarships worth a total of $25,000.

Based upon American College Test (ACT) scores and grade-point averages, the scholarships will be awarded over a four-year period.

Scholarship recipients include David Bourgeois, $7,000; Scott Cormaux, $7,000; John Lazzara, $7,000; and Joel Thomas, $7,000.

Military Mention

CAPT. YOUNG

Marine Capt. Charles A. Young, whose wife, Alane, is the daughter of Alben F. and Ruth Carlson of 117 DeMontuain Ave., Bay St. Louis, was the Honor Graduate of Non-Lawyer Course at the Naval Justice School, Newport, R.I.

Completion of this course enables Young to provide para-legal advice and basic legal assistance services, as well as performing the administrative duties of a unit legal officer.

During the five-week course, Young received instruction on the principles of military and civil law, court-martial procedures and the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

A 1977 graduate of Ecole Classique High School, New Orleans, he joined the Marine Corps in 1982.

HOL 10

Weekly State Crop Report (Covering Week of June 25-July 2)

With most planting complete, attention turns to prices

MISSISSIPPI STATE—With cotton plants thriving, and soybean planting near completion, producers are focusing their attention on stronger commodity prices and possible marketing strategies. When producers began planning their 1987 crops, prices for soybeans were hovering at the $4.70 per bushel mark, while cotton prices were around 35 cents a pound, according to Dr. Bob Williams, head of the Extension economist.

"But throughout the planting season prices rose sharply and at $8.23 a bushel for soybeans, and 73 cents a pound for cotton, prices were close to the November 1986 levels. The December cotton futures was holding at 71 to 72 cents.

Prices for soybean futures are close to the November 1986 level with an average of 62 to 65 cents a bushel. Break-even prices for cotton are approximately 64 to 65 cents a pound in the Delta region using a 700 pound yield and 68 to 70 cents a pound in the non-Delta area with an average yield of 550 to 600 pounds per acre.

According to Cleveland and Williams, prices at harvest will largely be determined by the weather and demand factors over the next few months.

ETV Brief

FARMWEEK—Reporter Rebekah Therrell visits the Brookhaven Wood Preserving Company on this week's edition of "Farmweek," airing on Mississippi ETV at 7:30 p.m., Monday, July 13.

Workers will demonstrate how telephone poles are made at the Brookhaven plant, where 1700 to 1800 poles are produced. Of the 230 wood preservers in the Southeast, Mississippi has the largest number. According to Brookhaven firm employee Charles

Also on this week's program, Extension Service Irrigation expert Jim Thomas advises cotton and soybean growers on the best time to irrigate crops.

Extension veterinarian Clyde Taylor will give livestock producers tips on how to keep their animals cool during hot, humid summer days.

Science education grant for communication network

A grant of $8,971 received by the University of Southern Mississippi Department of Science Education will help to continue a communication network of marine education activities.

Dr. Bobby N. Irby, chairman of the department, is director of the project that is sponsored by the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, based in Ocean Springs.

Irby said the project has three phases. They include the development of marine education materials; training of science teachers to include marine education in their curriculum; and providing seminars to inform the science and business community about the importance of marine education.

The project is in its third year and, according to Irby, "Already 1,000 teachers have attended our workshops to learn how to integrate a marine education curriculum into their programs."

The project supplies materials and resources, allowing a cost-effective introduction of marine education curriculum to be added to a school's existing science education program.

NASA Earth Resources Lab contract awarded to Lockheed

Lockheed Engineering and Management Services Company has been selected to continue its contract for technical support of the Earth Resources Laboratory at the National Space Technology Laboratories at NSTL in Hancock County.

The five-year contract is valued at more than $24 million.

Lockheed's role at the center is to support NASA in designing and developing electro-optical sensors, ground data processing systems and other techniques for conducting demonstration projects.

It also documents these procedures, and assists in transferring the technology to federal agencies, state and local governments and private industry.

A subsidiary of the Lockheed Corporation in Calabasas, Calif., Lockheed-EMSCO holds major technical services contracts with NASA, the Environmental Protection Agency, and the United States Army.

The company is headquartered in the Clear Lake area of Houston, Texas.

Hospital auxiliary slates fashion show

"Autumn Adventure" will be the theme of a fashion/travel show and luncheon set for Friday, July 24, at 11:30 a.m. at the Diamondhead Country Club.

The affair is being sponsored by the Hancock Medical Center Women's Auxiliary as its annual fund-raising event.

Fashions will be original New York designs and custom clothing exclusive to Doncaster, Inc., which markets its clothes through 2,000 consultants nationwide. As the fashions are modeled, Hancock Travel Agency will offer a presentation of various locations appropriate for the clothes shown.

"A fashion/travel show is new to the area," said Betty Kieley, auxiliary chairman of the event, "and we feel that showing the clothing while also presenting a travel locale to go with it is very interesting."

The Hancock Medical Center Women's Auxiliary is a voluntary organization of women who volunteer their time to assist in the Hancock Medical Center, and the funds raised from this event will be used to purchase various equipment needed at the hospital.

Tickets for the show are $12, and may be purchased at Trendsetters & Company, Ellen Kane Gifts, Hancock Travel Agency, the Diamondhead Country Club, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, or by calling Mary Perkins at Hancock Medical Center at 467-9081.

Garvey-Hensley

Susan Blair Hensley became the bride of Padriac Griffin Garvey in a candlelight ceremony in historic Lafayette United Methodist Church, Lafayette, Calif. on the evening of May 23, 1987.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Travis Hensley, longtime residents of Felicity Street in Bay St. Louis, presently from Moraga, Calif. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Arnold Garvey, also of Moraga.

Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Johnson of Waterford, Miss., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barrett Hensley of Holly Springs, Miss.

Preceding the wedding ceremony, Mark Horner of Walnut Creek, Calif. presented a piano concert of selections from "Windham Hill."

The bride entered the sanctuary on the arm of her father to "Trumpeter Voluntary." Her gown featured the traditional look of a wedding band neckline, long bonnet sleeves, and basque waistline, all of hand-beaded silk alencon lace. The gown was made of ivory silk taffeta with a cathedral train attached at the waistline and covered with medallions of beaded and sequined alencon lace. She carried a bouquet of bridal pink roses, white roses, stephanotis blossoms and white orchids tied with ribbon made of the fabric of her gown.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Helyn Hensley. Bridemaid was Erin Doohan and Jenny Bruno of New York City and Jean Longor of Chicago, Ill.

They wore English country wedding gowns of ivory moire taffeta in tea-length, featuring a sweetheart neckline, long bonnet sleeves with pink satin ribbons at the waistline extending to the hem. They carried garden bouquets of pink roses, denrobium orchids, and pink Holland tulips tied with bows of ivory moire taffeta.

Miss Jennifer Garvey, niece of the groom, of Phoenix, Ariz., was flower girl. She wore an antique gown of ivory silk taffeta with pink satin ribbons and a hopped skirt. She wore a garland of tiny pink rosebuds and carried a miniature basket of rose petals.

Serving as best man was John Compagna of Walnut Creek. Groomsmen were Seamus Garvey of Phoenix, brother of the groom; David Leslie of Alameda, Calif. and David Hess of Honolulu, Hawaii.

The sanctuary was decorated with brass hurricane lanterns on either side of the center aisle holding white tapers and bedecked with cascading arrangements of white, lilac, pink Holland tulips, English ivy and white satin ribbons. On the altar was a tall English garden arrangement of the same flowers with ferns, white orchids, pink peonies, pink snapdragons, rubrum lilies and white delphinium in an ornate brass urn. Boston ferns completed the English garden scene for the wedding.

The Reverend Gilbert Vieira performed the double-ring ceremony in which the bride and groom exchanged heirloom rings.

Miss Stephanie Poulson sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer." The recessional was "With Trumpets and Horns" from "The Water Music" by Purcell.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Garvey rode to the reception, which was held at the Lafayette Park Hotel, in a horse-drawn carriage.

Following a honeymoon to Austria, Germany and Italy, the bride and groom are at home in Pasadena, Calif., where he is an advertising executive with Foote, Cone and Belding and the bride is employed as a flight attendant with Delta Airlines.

Saving strategies change from past years

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Low inflation, low interest rates, and record-breaking stock market growth have changed the face of consumer savings in the past few years.

"Money market funds and certificates of deposit, so popular during the high-inflation early in the 1980s now pale in comparison to recent stock market gains," said Janet K. Lukens, an area consumer management specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. The first quarter of 1987 was a gain of 25 percent in the Dow Jones Industrials. This exceeded their growth for the entire 1986 year.

But cautious savers still fear the risk involved in the stock market. The best savings strategy will depend on one's own predictions for the future shape of the economy, Lukens said.

She provided some guidelines making savings decisions. A stable, low inflation economy calls for a different savings strategy than when inflation and interest rates are high and rising. When interest rates are rising, investing short-term and borrowing long-term are usual recommendations. This prevents "locking in" to low earnings and enables consumers to pay off debts with cheaper dollars.

In low inflation, do the opposite, she said. Invest long and borrow short. Money market accounts were a perfect place for emergency funds when interest rates were high. Now they don't pay much more than a passbook savings account. Lukens said emergency funds should equal two to six months net pay, so it may not be wise to keep so much money earning so little.

Somewhat higher rates can be found by tying up a portion of that money in short-term certificates of deposit (one to three years), U.S. Savings Bonds, T-Bills and bond mutual funds.

Locking into high rates with long-term, fixed income investments may be a good idea if interest rates stay low. For consumers needing safety for their principal, long-term Treasury securities are one way to earn a slightly higher rate.

"It is always wise to stagger maturities," she said. If rates rise, you can reinvest at a higher rate when shorter term investments mature.

Real estate and all hard assets should be held to a minimum in low inflation times. They simply don't appreciate as they do in high inflation, Lukens said. With the double setback of low inflation and tax reform, real estate is even less attractive.

The "hot place" to be in recent months has been the stock market. Returns have far surpassed interest-bearing accounts. These facts omit one primary investment rule "the bigger the potential reward, the bigger the risk of losing money."

For those young enough, rich enough, or daring enough, the rewards can be well worth the risk. For those who can't afford losses and depend on interest income, or who stay up nights worrying over losing money, stay away. For those who decide to take the plunge into investing, there are ways to reduce the guesswork and risk. "Dollar-cost averaging where contributions are made at regular intervals over a period of time can prevent large surfs invested at the wrong time," Lukens said. "Mutual fund companies allow you to start small, diversify and take advantage of professional management. For small investors, they can be a good alternative to individual stocks." Will the profitable stock market continue? Even investment analysts can't agree on the outlook. "Your assessment of our economy and your needs should dictate your savings and investment strategy," she said.

Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary

Submitted by Dr. Esther Oeschmann
Patriotic Instructor for Disabled Americans
Veterans Auxiliary, Department of Mississippi

Faith in freedom and a belief in "self-evident" truths was so strong that 55 men took a risk 200 years ago. They pledged their lives, their property and their future to a revolutionary concept of government that would ultimately change the world.

Measured by today's standards, they were radicals, these founding fathers.

To the British Crown they were nothing short of criminals and traitors. In the years before 1776 the idea of independence from England grew with a forced balance of trade. New World colonists became more and more dissatisfied. They had carved a civilization out of a wilderness; they had survived, but prosperity was not possible under the British yoke.

With the enforcement of more stringent laws following the end of Britain's long war with the French, resentment grew.

Colonists became more vocal in their objections to the tyranny of the Sugar Act in 1764, the Stamp Act of 1765 and the Tea Act of 1773.

A sense of loyalty to the land and its people on this side of the Atlantic took root.

American patriotism was born! Richard Henry Lee of Virginia introduced a resolution to the Continental Congress in June, 1776 that these "United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states."

Within a week, Thomas Jefferson had penned what was to become one of the world's most famous documents, the foundation of a new concept of government. Jefferson wrote the first draft and though minor changes were made, the Declaration of Independence was the work of this one man.

If George Washington is known as the "Father of this Country" by virtue of his position as first President of the United States, then Jefferson's inspired pen must be called the instrument of birth.

It was the first time in history that the principles of freedom, equality and justice for all citizens was the basis for forming a new government. Such phrases as "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" were not idle words to inflame a crowd, but words that would guide and direct a new nation under God through history.

Fifty-five men had the courage to sign their names to the Declaration of Independence, representing 13 colonies. Their act made revolution an instrument of honor and dignity for the benefit of mankind, not one of bloodshed for the political aims of a few.

Samuel Adams, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin and John Hancock are familiar names but there were 50 others whose names have faded from memory in two centuries. They were not extraordinary men but they believed in Jefferson's words. They signed their names and changed the course of history.

Thomas Paine, an eloquent writer in those long years of struggle put into words the patriotism that would mold the 13 colonies into "one nation under God."

Six months after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, Paine wrote these well-remembered and often-quoted words:

"These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country, but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph."

"What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too highly 'tis dearer only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to put a proper price upon its goods, and it would be strange indeed, if so celestial an article as freedom should not be highly rated."

America's greatest patriotic holiday is steeped in the history of our country. A young nation by most standards, The United States of America today stands as the oldest continuous democracy in the world.

Consider the blessings of freedom and democracy. We must never let our guard down for a minute or we can lose it all. We must not lose sight of our creator who has blessed this country of ours. In England in 1215 the Magna Carta set down the most basic of all liberties, the right of the individual to due process of law.

Individual liberty was a part of the fundamental law. We believe that the combination of these two concepts, namely freedom and democracy is the best system that man has or is likely to devise.

However, it can be maintained only if we jealously guard it always. It is the obligation of each and every one of us.

Fourth of July celebrates the birth of our great nation and its triumphant struggle for independence.

We are 200 years old. Happy Birthday to the greatest nation in the whole world, The United States of America. May the Lord always guide us for many more years to come.

IRS cautions senior citizens about tax scams

If someone who says they are from the Internal Revenue Service pays you a visit, you'd better make sure he or she is a bonafide representative of the Service, the IRS cautions.

Unfortunately, senior citizens are prime targets of tax and tax deduction schemes, where persons impersonating the IRS employees show up to "collect" additional taxes.

The IRS says all of its employees are required to carry clearly recognizable identification which must be presented when they contact taxpayers.

Most people who owe additional tax are contacted by mail, so make sure you don't transact business of any kind if you suspect fraud.

If you have any reason to believe someone is impersonating an IRS employee, or if you suspect someone of representing a bogus tax-exempt organization, call the IRS Regional Inspector at 965-5704.

Remember, under no circumstances should you give money, checks, bank books, or any other item, of value to someone you're not sure of. When it's your money, it pays to be careful.

By virtue of the hereunder stated execution to me directed by the Chancery Court of Hancock County, State of Mississippi, I will on the 22nd day of July, 1987, at the front door of the Chancery Court house in the town of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, within the legal hours, expose to sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, all the right, interest and claim and the Defendant, Buren B. Box, has in and to a certain Lot 16, Block 1, Unit 8 DIAMONDHEAD, Phase 1, according to the map or plat thereof recorded in Plat Book 4, at Page 11, in the Office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi; which has been levied on as the property of the said Defendant and will be sold to satisfy the Judgment therein and all costs.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR COASTAL WETLANDS PERMIT AND WATER QUALITY CERTIFICATION
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has filed an application with the Bureau of Marine Resources requesting permission to conduct regulated activities under the provisions of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Act, Chapter 27, Mississippi Code of 1972.

The applicant is requesting permission to place rip-rap material for bank stabilization along the Jordan River at McLeod State Park in Hancock County.

In compliance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251, 1341), as amended by PL 95-217, Hancock County Board of Supervisors requested that the Bureau of Marine Resources request permission to conduct regulated activities under the provisions of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Act, Chapter 27, Mississippi Code of 1972.

Any person wishing to make comments or objections to the proposed regulated activity must submit those comments in writing to the Bureau of Marine Resources at P.O. Drawer 999, Long Beach, Mississippi 39066 and the Bureau of Pollution Control, P.O. Box 19365, Jackson, Mississippi 39219 before 1:00 p.m. on the 20th day of July, 1987.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF 15TH SECTION LAND RECLASSIFICATION
The Hancock County Board of Education hereby gives notice of the reclassification of sixteenth section (school trust) land from forestry to residential located in Hancock County in compliance with the requirements of Section 29-3-37, Mississippi Code of 1972 (Annotated), as shown below:

Description: P.O.B. being an iron located 1021 ft. South and 1288.5 ft. West of the N.E. Corner of Section 16, T.6S., R.14W., Hancock County, Mississippi and run S-74 Degrees W., along a public road for 420.0 ft. to an iron, then S-16 Degrees E. for 525.0 ft. to the P.O.B. Said parcel containing 5.06 A. and being a part of the N.E. 1/4, Section 16, T.6S., R.14W., Hancock County, Mississippi.

Any interested parties desiring to object to this classification, or any part thereof, must submit their objection in writing to the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County on or before August 26, 1987.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR COASTAL WETLANDS PERMIT AND WATER QUALITY CERTIFICATION

Mr. James Dasgip has filed an application with the Bureau of Marine Resources requesting permission to conduct regulated activities under the provisions of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Act, Chapter 27, Mississippi Code of 1972.

The applicant is requesting permission to perform dredging activities and place fill in coastal wetlands adjacent to Lot #16, 1012-1014, Tapon Road on a canal of Campiella inside Bayou in Heron Bay Estates, near Ansley, Hancock County, Mississippi.

In compliance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251, 1341), as amended by PL 95-217, Mr. James Dasgip requested certification from the Bureau of Pollution Control that the above mentioned activity will be in compliance with applicable provisions of Section 303 (33 U.S.C. 1311), Section 302 (33 U.S.C. 1312), Section 303 (33 U.S.C. 1313), Section 306 (33 U.S.C. 1316) and Section 307 (33 U.S.C. 1317) of the Act and appropriate requirements of the State Law.

Any person wishing to make comments or objections to the proposed regulated activity must submit those comments in writing to the Bureau of Marine Resources at P.O. Drawer 999, Long Beach, Mississippi 39066 and the Bureau of Pollution Control, P.O. Box 19365, Jackson, Mississippi 39219 before 1:00 p.m. on the 20th day of July, 1987.

Watermelons, July Go Hand In Hand

By Milo Burnham
Horticulture Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

There's no doubt about it, watermelons and the Fourth of July go hand in hand. I don't know if it's because the Fourth is hot and ice cold watermelon is so refreshing, because of seed spitting contests at fairs and picnics, because of the bright red color of watermelon on this red, white and blue day or because the Fourth is a day for picnics and you can't have a summer picnic without watermelon.

Whatever the reason, the Fourth of July is the biggest day in the year for watermelon. That may cause you to wonder just how big are big watermelons? The world record watermelon was grown by Chester Conrad in Oklahoma in 1983, and weighed 219 pounds. The variety known as Carolina Cross was developed by the grower.

Most of the watermelons grown in Mississippi this year are the variety jubilee. This melon normally runs between 20 and 30 pounds in weight with the size being determined by growing conditions such as soil fertility, available moisture and prevalence of disease and insect problems.

Some other varieties being grown, but on a much smaller scale, are Charleston Gray, Crimson Sweet, Mirage and AU-jubilant. Mississippi watermelon growers must pay attention to the disease resistance because of the serious disease problems that exist in watermelon-growing areas.

It is interesting to note that not all watermelons have red flesh. Yellow-meated watermelons have been grown for many years and the seed trade has developed yellow-fleshed varieties such as Tendersweet, Yellow Doll and Yellow Baby.

Most people, however, have as much trouble eating a yellow watermelon as they do a yellow beet, a blue potato or a white tomato. The watermelon variety with the reddest flesh is probably Dixielee, a round striped disease-resistant variety developed by the University of Florida several years ago.

Today, the color of the seed has a lot to do with the success of a watermelon variety. The public

ETV Brief

AUDUBON SPECIALS

The "National Audubon Society Specials" presents an insightful look at the animals of the Galapagos Islands on "My Fragile World" at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 12, on Mississippi ETV. The program repeats at 10 p.m. Monday, July 13.

Cliff Robertson narrates this program that features resident photographer and conservationist Tue De Roy's first-hand experiences into the natural history of her island home.

First brought to worldwide attention by Charles Darwin, these mysterious islands off the coast of Ecuador harbor many species of plants and animals found nowhere else in the world. Many of these species are now threatened with extinction, and efforts are under way to save them.

almost demands black seed and interprets this as an indication of maturity.

Garrisonian, a good large melon that was popular a number of years ago, lost its popularity mainly because it has white seeds. People who became accustomed to black seeds thought the melons were immature and therefore wouldn't buy them.

While most of the watermelons grown weigh 20 to 30 pounds there are varieties that produce both smaller and larger melons. Ice-box melons weighing eight to 12 pounds are popular with small families and home gardeners.

Varieties in this group are Sweet Treat, Petite Sweet, Sugar Baby, Yellow Baby, Family Fun and a number of others. One major problem with some of the ice-box type melons is that they lack disease resistance.

At the other end of the scale, the heavy end, there are not many varieties to choose from. Varieties like Cobb Gem and White Seeded Watson that produce melons weighing over 100 pounds are seldom grown today.

Whether you are buying a watermelon or trying to select one from your garden you have to determine if the melon is ripe. Buying an uncut melon at the store is harder than selecting one in the field because several of the maturity signs aren't present.

Four characteristics to check for in determining whether or not a melon is ripe are: the color of the "ground spot," the sound when thumped, the condition of the tendril adjacent to the stem end of the melon and the feel and appearance of the rind surface.

The color of the spot where the melon rests on the ground changes from greenish-white to pale yellow when the melon is ripe. Ripe melons emit a dull or hollow sound compared to the clear ring of an immature melon when thumped. The tendril at the point of attachment withers and is dried out at fruit maturity. Lastly, the rind of a ripe melon feels slightly rough and has a dull opaque appearance when compared to the shiny, glossy, smoother feel of an immature melon.

The thickness of the rind of watermelons has changed over the years and all the new varieties and hybrids have rinds that are much thinner than those of the older varieties. As a lover of pickled watermelon rind I hated to see this come about.

While the flesh color of most watermelons is red, there is more variation in the rind color. There are varieties with a light green rind and those with a dark green or striped rind but none is as interesting or as beautiful as the rind of a Moon and Stars melon with its dark green background and bright yellow spots. This old variety of melon is still grown by a few Mississippians.
